"Israel should have been a water basket case," says Siegel, listing its problems: 60% of the land is desert and the rest is arid. Rainfall has fallen to half its 1948 average, apparently thanks to climate change, and as global warming progresses, Israel and the whole Levant are expected to become even drier - and from 1948, Israel's population has grown 10-fold.

The secret of Israel's water miracle and how it can help a ...
